

On April 8, 2020 at 3:46 PM, State Representative Ian Mackey, D-St. Louis County, purposefully violated the Missouri Constitution and state law when he fundraised from his state capitol office, a blatant flouting of the “Clean Missouri” amendment he publicly supported. This is believed to be the first documented violation of Clean Missouri’s ban on Capitol fundraising.

1. In November 2018, more than 62 percent of Missourians who cast ballots approved the "Clean Missouri" plan on the ballot as Amendment 1.
2. It made several changes to Missouri's Constitution, including prohibiting political fundraising on state property by candidates for, or members of, the Legislature.
3. Advocates of the measure cited a need to formally bar lawmakers from fundraising in the Capitol building, as “there was no law that specifically says that a lawmaker cannot accept a campaign contribution while in the Capitol.” “The text of the measure is very clear. When our legislators are in the Capitol, they should be worried about their constituents, not how they’re going to score their next campaign check,” Clean Missouri spokesman Benjamin Singer told the Post-Dispatch. Ex. D.
4. The Missouri Constitution, Art. III, Section 20(c), states:

“No political fundraising activities or political fundraising event by any member of or candidate for the general assembly, including but not limited to the solicitation or delivery of contributions, supporting or opposing any candidate, initiative petition, referendum petition, ballot measure, political party or political committee, shall occur in or on any premises, property or building owned, leased or controlled by the State of Missouri or any agency or division thereof. Any purposeful violation of this section shall be punishable by imprisonment for up to one year or a fine of up to one thousand dollars or both, plus an amount equal to three times the illegal contributions. The Missouri ethics commission or its successor agency is authorized to enforce this section as provided by law.”

5. In addition to the Constitutional provision, Missouri law and House ethics rules bar the use of state resources for political purposes.
6. Mo. Rev. Stat. § 36.157 prohibits political activity “in any room or building occupied in the discharge of official duties or by utilizing any state resources or facilities.”

7. Mo. Rev. Stat. § 115.646 penalizes the expenditure of public funds “directly by any officer, employee or agent of any political subdivision to advocate, support, or oppose any ballot measure or candidate for public office.”
8. In addition to the statutory and Constitutional prohibitions, House internal policy bans political activity by legislators and their staff during work hours or from House property. A policy drafted by the speaker’s office allows the House Ethics Committee to hear complaints of violations by House members. The policy states that “House employees are prohibited from participating in campaign or fundraising activities during work hours or from using House property and resources (computer, copier, fax machine, office supplies, etc.) for political purposes.” Ex. D.
9. On April 8, 2020, during the COVID-19 pandemic, State Rep. Ian Mackey, an attorney who sits on the House Judiciary Committee, returned to the State Capitol in Jefferson City and joined his House colleagues for debate on the supplemental budget.
10. As he and other lawmakers waited in their offices to be called to vote in small groups, Rep. Mackey took a photo of himself in his Capitol office (Room 105J) wearing a surgical mask and posted it along with a fundraising plea on his campaign Facebook page. Ex. A.
11. Accompanying the mask selfie on his campaign Facebook page was message written by Rep. Mackey acknowledging that he was present in the Capitol building (“we’re back”), criticizing his colleagues (the “damn SUPERmajority”), and directly soliciting campaign contributions (“I want to talk about politics. I want to talk about November 2020 right – now. Do you?”) by linking to the Act Blue donation page for the official campaign committee of the Missouri House Democrats (<https://secure.actblue.com/donate/mhd-donate-now>). See Ex. A.
12. Rep. Mackey posted to Facebook this message from his capitol office at 3:46 p.m.:

“We can always come back,” they said. “Let’s end the doomsday talk,” they said. “We don’t fully understand this evolving situation,” they said.

“We shouldn’t come back here. It’s going to put people at risk,” we said. “It’s going to get worse and and people are going to die,” we said. “Let’s do something NOW (weeks ago) before things get worse,” we said.

Well, we’re back. Things are worse. We’re all taking risks being here. And what do we hear? The cries, whines, and complaints about how “tired” and how “frustrated” the GOP supermajority is with Democrats making this political. Boo. Hoo.

Woe, oh woe, is the damn SUPERmajority who doesn't even need our votes to establish a quorum or pass a single piece of legislation. You want to talk about politics? I want to talk about politics. I want to talk about November 2020 right - now. Do you?

<https://secure.actblue.com/donate/mhd-donate-now>

13. Rep. Mackey's ActBlue link takes visitors to a page soliciting contributions to "the Missouri House Democratic Campaign Committee (MO), the official campaign committee of the Missouri House Democrats." Ex. B.
14. The ActBlue page linked by Rep. Mackey urged donors to give between $5 and $500, and to "Join the people-powered movement working to flip seats blue in the Missouri House. Help us provide resources, training, and support for candidates who are working to be your voice in Jefferson City—both in your community and across the state. Invest in a legislature that's fighting for you and get more Democrats elected in 2020!" Ex. B.
15. Rep. Mackey posted the solicitation for contributions from his state capitol office, while he was present on official business.
16. Rep. Mackey posted the fundraising solicitation from his office while the House was in session. See Ex. E (House Journal). On April 8, 2020, the House did not adjourn its session to pass the supplemental spending bill on until 4:45 p.m., as reflected in the House Journal. Mackey posted his fundraising plea to his campaign Facebook page at 3:46 p.m.
17. Upon information and belief, Rep. Mackey received his daily per diem of more than $100 for being present in Jefferson City at the Capitol on April 8, 2020.
18. Rep. Mackey publicly supported Clean Missouri, the Constitutional Amendment that banned fundraising in the Missouri State Capitol and made it punishable by a fine and/or imprisonment. <http://www.darnews.com/story/2637774.html>
19. During his campaign, Rep. Mackey touted his experience as an attorney and his commitment to ethics, with his website promising that he would "keep it clean." <https://ian-mackey-rw97.squarespace.com/get-to-know-ian> Ex. C. "If elected, I promise not to get stuck in the mud, or the weeds, or anywhere else you might find Remy. I'll keep it clean, and work for you."
20. Representative Mackey's blatant fundraising solicitation and act of engaging in partisan political activity from his capitol office, using state property and resources while being paid his daily House per diem, is a textbook violation of the Missouri Constitution, state statute, and House ethics rules.

21. This Complaint requests the Missouri Ethics Commission open an investigation into the facts surrounding Rep. Mackey's solicitation of political contributions on state property, in particular, to determine the amount of contributions illegally solicited for the House Democrats due to Rep. Mackey's April 8, 2020 illegal solicitation, and order up to three times that amount be returned by Rep., Mackey, plus one thousand dollars, as set out in the Missouri Constitution.

22. This Complaint requests that the Missouri Ethics Commission find that Rep. Mackey, an attorney, purposely violated the Missouri Constitution, Art. III, Section 20(c), by fundraising from his Capitol office, and assess all punishments, fines, and penalties appropriate as set out by law.

His earliest memories include volunteering with his granddad and labor leaders in rural areas throughout Southern Missouri and Iowa. These pursuits continued into adulthood. He was able to pay his own college tuition by working in Secretary of State Robin Carnahan office, helping Missourians understand complex government regulations.

Ian and Stephen have both worked on numerous bipartisan and Democratic political campaigns, including urban and rural state legislative races, the presidential campaigns of Hillary Clinton and Barack Obama, and statewide ballot campaigns to restore collective bargaining rights for public employees.

Maybe most importantly, Ian knows the 87th district. By managing several previous campaigns for State Representative Stacey Newman, he has talked to hundreds of voters in the district since 2008, getting to know their concerns, as well as the unique attributes of this community.

In 2008, I served as a delegate from the 2nd Congressional District to the Democratic National Convention.

In 2012, my husband, Stephen, and I became engaged to one another at the Democratic National Convention in Charlotte.

In Missouri, group wants to bar lawmakers from fundraising in Capitol

JEFFERSON CITY • As a newly minted state lawmaker from St. Louis in 1993, Joan Bray was in Missouri’s House of Representatives when an envelope containing a $1,000 campaign contribution landed on her desk.

It was an eye-opening moment.

“I was so stunned. I didn’t know what to do,” said Bray, a Democrat who would go on to serve in the Missouri House and Senate for 16 years.

The man who distributed the campaign contribution to her and other lawmakers was House Speaker Bob Griffin, who, in the era before Missouri imposed term limits on lawmakers, became the longest-serving speaker of the House.

Just three years after serving as the conduit for onsite campaign contributions in the Capitol, Griffin, a Democrat, would be found guilty in federal court of taking kickbacks from an associate in exchange for using his influence to get her lobbying contracts.

For Bray, the episode was an example of how money aimed at influencing votes can flow through the Missouri Capitol when lawmakers are in town.

The practice of spreading cash to the policy makers where they work is one piece of an ethics proposal that will be decided by voters in November.

Under a far-reaching ballot initiative known as Clean Missouri, political fundraising on state property would be banned.

“To me that’s a no-brainer,” Bray told the Post-Dispatch.

The Clean Missouri initiative would tighten campaign contribution limits, ban lobbyist gifts over $5, require politicians to wait two years before becoming lobbyists, and it would dramatically alter the way Missouri draws its legislative districts.

The provision that would change how Missouri draws its legislative maps has drawn the most scrutiny. In a lawsuit filed by an attorney who successfully defended the state's legislative maps when they were challenged in 2011, a Cole County judge is being asked to toss the initiative off the ballot.

In a second lawsuit, filed by the Missouri Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the prohibition on fundraising on state property is among a litany of provisions being questioned.

In the business group's lawsuit, attorneys say the proposal violates the First Amendment because it would include a ban on fundraising at any state property.

“The ban would include, at a minimum every conservation area, state park, state building, state monument, piece of state university property, state owned or controlled road, state parking lots, and countless other areas that have nothing to do with the legislature,” the lawsuit says.

State ethics laws bar elected officials from receiving a contribution in exchange for their vote on an issue. And state law bars the use of state resources for political purposes.

But there is no law that specifically says that a lawmaker cannot accept a campaign contribution while in the Capitol. Nonetheless, lawmakers are given guidance on the practice through a policy drafted by the speaker’s office. It specifically addresses legislative staffers.

“House employees are prohibited from participating in campaign or fundraising activities during work hours or from using House property and resources (computer, copier, fax machine, office supplies, etc.) for political purposes,” the policy says.

With the chamber's court case expected to be on a fast track in order to determine whether the proposition should stay on the November ballot, Clean Missouri officials are ready to defend it.

"The text of the measure is very clear. When our legislators are in the Capitol, they should be worried about their constituents, not how they're going to score their next campaign check," Clean Missouri spokesman Benjamin Singer said.

For Bray, the experience of being given money while she was in the Capitol to deliberate on laws affecting millions of Missourians was unsettling.

"Lobbyists would come by the office and try to give my staff a check. To me, it was just so inappropriate," she said.

JOURNAL OF THE HOUSE

Second Regular Session, 100th GENERAL ASSEMBLY

FORTY-SIXTH DAY, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 8, 2020

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Speaker Haahr in the Chair.

Prayer by Representative Doug Richey

Heavenly Father, we come before You during unprecedented days. Your Word instructs us to place our faith, our confidence, our hope, in You, first and foremost. The chamber before me is unpopulated, our neighbors, in isolation, face the grief of lost loved ones, lost jobs, delayed medical procedures, accumulating outstanding bills, and ever growing tension. These difficult days are here because of the unseen threat that COVID-19 has brought to our state's doorstep. We call out to You in humble desperation. The threat is real but You are greater than the threat. As members of Missouri's House of Representatives, we know our task, here today, yet, we know our ultimate limitation. You instruct Missouri's residents to not place their ultimate trust in governmental authorities or any human institution, precisely because You alone are worthy of all trust; You alone are able to meet the vast needs of their lives; You alone are able to accomplish what human government was never designed to accomplish; You alone are God.

We ask that You demonstrate Your righteous power for the benefit of our state. We ask that You strengthen our hearts with courage for the days yet to unfold. We ask that You grant whatever necessary for COVID-19 to be brought to its knees. We ask that You unify us around the encouraging truth that the day will dawn when COVID-19 will have been vanquished and we will emerge to enjoy the blessings of life.

In Jesus' name I pray, "Amen".

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as an Honorary Page for the Day, to serve without compensation: Andrew Edwards Fennesy.

HOUSE RESOLUTION ADOPTION PROCEDURAL OBJECTION

A motion to adopt House Resolution (LR# 5769H.021) was introduced by Representative Vescovo, District 112. House members were instructed to remain in their respective offices (unless speaking on a bill or voting). As per instructions, when the vote was taken, members would be called from their offices in order to cast a vote (and immediately exit the chamber).

Following the introduction of the aforementioned resolution, the gentleman from District 163 was recognized by the Speaker in order to take up HB 2014.

House members were not summoned to the House Chamber in order to cast a vote by voice or by electronic means. House Rule 94 explicitly states that “Every member shall be present within the hall of the House during its sittings, unless excused or necessarily prevented, and shall vote on each question put....”

When questioned about the adoption of the resolution, the explanation provided was the resolution was adopted by majority. In this case, the majority permitted to vote included a significant minority of members: Speaker, Majority Floor Leader, the Gentleman from District 163, Minority Floor Leader, and the Gentleman from District 45.

Clearly, the lack of summoning members (to vote) who were present in the Capitol building violates the essence of a representative government.
